QUOTES

"...who distills elements of his local Scandinavian architecture into its most simple form, creating compositions which make even the most mundane windows, street furniture, and terraced houses turn into objects of surprising beauty"

-Type 7 Magazine

PROFILE

Marcus Wallinder is a photographer and graphic designer, based in Malmö, Sweden. Through his images, Marcus highlights buildings that surround us in our everyday lives and that we do not always notice, even though they make out a large part of our living environment.

Marcus' artistry is characterized by a fascination for architecture, lines, colors, shapes and shadows. In his art, Marcus is inspired by everyday environments and their place in history. In his photos, the feeling of a bygone era is constantly present. These are reminiscent of filmmaker Wes Anderson's minimalist world where buildings often appear to exist somewhere in the borderland between reality and imagination.
